Dear friends and travellers,

I am delighted to warmly welcome you to join me on this special 11-day group trip to Bolivia to commemorate 20 years of Aracari, accompanied by myself and Bolivia's most celebrated living artist, Gastón Ugalde.

- April 21 – May 1, 2018
- Bolivia to San Pedro de Atacama
- Special Price US $ per person (please contact us for pricing)

Neighboring my home country of Peru, Bolivia has never failed to entrance me over my countless visits exploring the country in-depth. From the colonial cities of Sucre and Potosí to the mesmerizing natural wonder of the white salt flats of Uyuni and other-worldly landscapes of the Eduardo Avaroa National Reserve, Bolivia boasts unrivalled scenery and rich history, having been one of the hubs of Andean civilizations for centuries.

Over the years I have met fascinating people who have added insight to my understanding of the country. It will be my pleasure to introduce you to some of these Bolivian friends during your journey. Through them, we will enjoy insider access to places not always accessible to the public. Meeting and connecting with local people adds a special dimension to any trip and I truly believe that this is the best way to gain an authentic understanding of a country.

I am proud to have been recognized as Conde Nast Top Travel Specialist to Bolivia and selected numerous times on Travel + Leisure's A-List for Bolivia. Drawing on my own travel experience, I have carefully designed this group journey to encompass my destination highlights - as well as planning a few special experiences with my personal contacts like Gastón Ugalde along the way!

I look forward sharing my love of this fascinating, diverse country in South America with travellers who share a spirit of adventure.

Saludos,

Group Journey accompanied by Gastón Ugalde

Given the moniker of the 'Andean Warhol' by art critics, Gastón Ugalde is Bolivia's most celebrated living artist and considered a visual arts leader in the region. Ugalde will accompany our trip to the salt flats of Uyuni in Bolivia. Photos of Gastón Ugalde and his work can be seen below.

Ugalde's education background encompasses both the arts and Economics and Political Science which is seen in his work, being deeply rooted in Bolivian traditions and filled with socio-political references. With a career spanning half a century, Ugalde experimented with video art in his early work, a medium he pioneered in Bolivia in the seventies. He went on to master a spectrum of media, including performance, painting, sculpture, installation land-art and photography. Ugalde has had 81 solo-shows and over 160 collective exhibitions, including the Venice Biennale 2009 and 2001.

Bringing along his cultural curiosity and riotous personality, we will have the opportunity to spend time with the leading artist for an unparalleled, privileged insight into his creative perspective on life and the arts in Bolivia. Ugalde will accompany us at the Salar de Uyuni, an awe-inspiring natural phenomenon that frequently inspires and features in his boundary-pushing art, in particular his photography and installation work.

Detailed Itinerary

Day 1

Saturday 21 April

Domestic Arrival and Transfer to Hotel | An Aracari representative will be expecting you in Sucre from your domestic flight from Santa Cruz (or La Paz), with a sign bearing your name. She will greet you with a welcome pack, brief you on your trip, and escort you to your hotel to assist you with check-in.

Within the welcome pack, you will find a hard copy of your itinerary for your trip with local times, maps, recommended shopping and eating and background information of the sites you will visit. She will also talk you through this information and will be happy to answer any questions that you may have at this point. All hotel vouchers are sent electronically prior to your check-in.

We expect that you will be arriving in the afternoon after a long journey, so there are no activities planned for today. Instead, take the time to settle in, rest at the hotel or take a stroll around the beautiful colonial city of Sucre. You will be personally welcomed by the hotel owner, Mr Luis Rodriguez, who is the honorary consul for Spain.

4 nights at Parador Santa Maria La Real | Conveniently located one block from Sucre's Plaza de Armas and only 35km from the airport, Parador Santa Maria La Real (2,750m) is a beautiful colonial house that has been restored and adapted into a comfortable and charming 23-room hotel. Preserving the traditional style and even some furniture from the 18th-century home, Parador Santa Maria also features modern amenities like free high-speed internet and spa facilities. Guests can relax on the charming terrace overlooking the churches of Sucre or explore the small museum featuring items discovered during the renovations. With its convenient location and old-world splendor, Parador Santa Maria is an excellent choice for anyone spending time in Sucre. We recommend dinner at the Alliance Francaise or El Solar restaurant, both cozy and informal options with good food.

Sunday 22 April

Tarabuco Market & Hacienda Candelaria | Full day tour led by expert guide | The market village of Tarabuco and the traditional Hacienda Candelaria, outside Sucre, both offer fascinating insight into traditional indigenous life in Bolivia.

This morning your private vehicle and guide will collect you from your hotel to head to the village of Tarabuco, approximately 1hr 15min away. Tarabuco is known for its bustling market, which only takes place on Sundays. Here, artisans and weavers arrive early and set up stands to sell and barter their colorful crafts and produce until mid-afternoon. You will have the opportunity to browse or purchase the likes of handcrafted tapestries and textiles, jewelry and ceramics, or just enjoy the bustling market environment where the majority of locals from the indigenous Yampara community still wear traditional dress.

Leaving Tarabuco, you'll continue south-east for approximately 40 minutes by road to reach the town of Candelaria, known for producing quality woven textiles. You will be able to meet with locals in the community and visit their indigenous homes to see how people here live, as well as visit the community museum which displays beautiful local weaving work, which is available for purchase. Take a tour of 17th century colonial Hacienda Candelaria, where you will enjoy a typical Bolivia countryside lunch. Candelaria affords a window into both rural community living, as well as life before the land reforms of the early-1950s in Bolivia. The Hacienda is an attractive rustic adobe-brick building formed around a courtyard, harking back to its days of former grandeur. Visit its chapel, storage rooms, orchards and unique native museum home to agricultural tools. You can also participate in a textile workshop, learning to spin and dye the wool and try your hand at the intricate weaving process. Time allowing, you can walk to an Incan bridge. At the end of the visit you will be transferred back to Sucre, which takes approximately two and a half hours.

Overnight at Parador Santa Maria La Real.

Monday 23 April

Local handicrafts and products | 3-hour visit with expert guide | Today you will get a taste of Bolivian culture through the handicrafts and products traditionally produced in Sucre. Visit the Chocolates Para Ti factory in the Garcilaso neighborhood of Sucre to see the step-by-step process of how chocolate is made – with the opportunity to sample! Then visit the working factory of hat company Sombreros Sucre. Hats form an integral part of Bolivian attire and Sucre's hat production offers an insight to the wide variety of regional styles. See how it all begins with the making of a fuste, a floppy, bell-shaped felt "hat" from which all finished hats are then shaped. Once the fuste has been made, it is flattened, shaped, dyed, shrunken, stiffened and detailed, until it has been transformed into a hat. The on-site museum includes a hat shop where you can purchase hats made in the factory.

You will also gain insight into traditional textiles on your visit. The Foundation for Anthropological Research and Ethno-development, Anthropologists of the Southern Andes (ASUR) has a museum with beautiful intricate textiles. The Museum of Indigenous Art started as part of ASUR's Indigenous Art Renaissance Program in 1986 with the objective of promoting contemporary indigenous art, particularly traditional textiles from two cultural groups, the Jalq'a and Tarabuco. Today the program includes more than 800 associate female weavers in 17 communal workshops and 200 male tapestry weavers and embroiderers reviving pre-Columbian techniques. In addition to exhibition rooms displaying unique pieces, weavers give live demonstrations of the techniques used in the creation of their textile designs.

Dinosaur Footprints | 2-hour excursion led by expert guide | The largest set of dinosaur tracks found in the world are located on the outskirts of Sucre, just 15 minutes from the city centre, in the region of Chuquisaca. The impressive dinosaur footprints are located on a vertical limestone slab in the quarry of Cal Orck'o, where vibrations in 1998 caused the earth to move, exposing over 5,055 preserved tracks. These date back to around 68 million years ago, a time in which the majority of dinosaurs lived. Paleontologists have discovered the tracks belong to at least 8 species of terapods with examples of both biped and quadruped prints, indicating that different species co-habited the area, including the mighty Tyrannosaurus Rex. During your excursion you will also visit the Cretaceous Park, located near to the footprints, where life-size dinosaur replicas help visitors imagine a time when these massive creatures roamed the earth.

Monastery of San Filipe Neri | Once back in Sucre, you will visit one of the most important constructions in the city, the Monastery of San Filipe Neri, which was built between 1795 and 1799 in the neoclassic style. The cloister is very interesting with two levels of four-centered arches that rest on massif columns. The beautiful roof terrace offers panoramic views over the city.

Meet the artist Edgar Urioste | Visit the home and workshop of a local painter Edgar Urioste, who depicts the life and culture of the Spanish and their descendants who went to Bolivia. You will have the opportunity to meet the artist to talk about his work.

Dinner at Casa Aranjuez | Converted from an old hacienda, this private home is located 15 minutes from the centre of Sucre, in a pleasant residential area. Restored and owned by the Rodriguez family, who are friends of Marisol and Aracari, they will host you for a typical Bolivian meal.

Overnight at Parador Santa Maria La Real.

Tuesday 24 April

History and Tradition | 3-hour tour led by expert guide | Sucre, which shares capital city status with La Paz, is the country's most charming city and it was here that independence was proclaimed. Founded by the Spanish in the first half of the 16th century, its history and importance has always been closely linked to that of nearby Potosí: Spanish royalty and wealthy families involved with the wealth of silver mining in Potosí lived in Sucre, seeking refuge from the high altitudes and cold temperatures. Sucre is a UNESCO World Heritage site and a well-preserved example of the architectural blend between local traditions and styles imported from Europe, home to gleaming white stucco buildings, green parks, and streets lined with cafes and restaurants. Besides its aesthetic charm, Sucre's highlights include the second oldest University in South America and many 16th century churches.

There are a variety of unique museums and historical sites in Sucre which will be incorporated into your tour, including: The main square – Plaza 25 de Mayo, The House of Liberty and the Monastery of La Recoleta, which is at the highest point in the city offering incredible views. You will also visit the University Colonial and may also be able to visit the Anthropological and Modern Art Museums, which are currently closed for restoration, but should be reopened in time for this trip. The tour will also include a stop at the beautiful manicured Bolivar Park where you can enjoy a stroll. The exact route may vary. During the tour you'll stop for a mid-morning snack of salteñas, a traditional Bolivian pastry, and later have lunch at a local restaurant.

Enjoy the afternoon at leisure exploring Sucre or relaxing.

Overnight at Parador Santa Maria La Real.

Wednesday 25 April

Overland Transfer to Potosí | After breakfast, your vehicle and guide will collect you from your hotel for the drive from Sucre to Potosí, which takes approximately 2hr 30min.

The City of Silver | Sitting at around 4000 meters (13,123 ft), Potosí was an unassuming Andean village until the arrival of the Spaniards and its conversion into the Empire's economic center, delivering great wealth to the Spanish rulers. Founded in 1546, Potosí was established after the discovery of what seemed to be an endless supply of silver deposits in the Cerro Rico (meaning 'Rich Mountain') mine, located just to the south of the city. In the 16th Century, the city had evolved into a metropolis with a population larger than Paris. According to legend, the mountain that towers over the city has produced enough silver to build a solid silver bridge from Potosí to Madrid!

Now a UNESCO World Heritage city, the city retains elements of its former grandeur. Today you will visit a few places of interest in the center of Potosí including the Casa de la Moneda (Royal Mint), filled with fascinating wooden machinery used to make coins for the Spanish colonies. You'll also visit the local miners' market and delve into functioning silver mine for a glimpse at the industry's past and present, with an insight into the challenging conditions miners still undergo to this day. After lunch at a local restaurant, head to the Convent of Santa Teresa, which, besides its aesthetic beauty, is a great representation of religious life during colonial times. At the end of the tour you'll transfer to Hotel Museo Cayara for a traditional home-style Bolivian meal and to spend the night.

Overnight at Hotel Museo Cayara | Situated on the outskirts of Potosí (approx. 30-40 min drive), at a lower altitude (3,500m) than the city, Hotel Museo Cayara was built in 1557. Nowadays it is home to an on-site museum and 14 guestrooms. They are basic but comfortable and open onto two beautiful courtyards. The owners are more than hospitable, making guests feel like they are staying in a home away from home. Browse through the restored library, the private chapel and museum with 16th century masks and indigenous Aymara armour on display.

Day 6

Thursday 26 April

Overland Transfer to Uyuni | After breakfast, and a tour of the hacienda, depart for your private transfer of approximately five hours to Uyuni, where you'll have lunch in a local restaurant.

Train Cemetery | As you near Uyuni, make a brief stop to see the eerie Train Cemetery, the fascinating resting place of freight trains that once passed through the area in the late 1800s. You'll also briefly stop to see a quinoa processing plant, before continuing to Colchani for dinner at Palacio de Sal Hotel.

Star-gazing on the Salar | 2-hours led by an astronomy specialist | The unobstructed expanse of the isolated salt flats makes this a truly spellbinding experience, as the full breadth and immensity of the night sky can be observed and appreciated with the telescope provided or with the naked eye. Located at altitude with almost no light pollution thanks to a sparse population, the Salar de Uyuni is one of the best places to stargaze in South America. Head out onto the Salar come nightfall with an expert astronomer who will point out planets and the likes of constellations of the southern hemisphere, distant galaxies and other celestial objects, seen both with the naked-eye and through a telescope. Note that stargazing is dependent on a clear sky and favourable weather conditions.

Overnight at Palacio de Sal Hotel | The Palacio de Sal was the first hotel in the world to be constructed completely out of salt. Located 25 km (15.5 miles) outside the city of Uyuni, the 16-room hotel overlooks the stunning salt flats. Many of the rooms are designed to look like igloos and each offers a private bathroom, hot water and central or electric heating. Guests can enjoy local cuisine prepared in the restaurant and the views from the terrace, relax at the spa or have some fun in the games room.

Friday 27 April

Salar de Uyuni | Spend the day at the largest salt flat on earth, the Salar de Uyuni, with stunning sceneries unmatched anywhere else in the world. Covering 12,000 square km (4,633 square miles) of Bolivian Altiplano, the salt flats of Uyuni are an awe-inspiring natural phenomenon that is sure to be an unforgettable experience. The surreal pentagons of crystalline salt and the endless sky will certainly make you feel that there is no place like this in the whole world.

During today's tour you will stop at the small town of Colchani, a village on the edge of the Salar de Uyuni, where the salt is processed. In the small market locals sell handicrafts made of salt and bags of authentic Salar de Uyuni table salt as souvenirs. Nearby you'll visit the Ojos de Agua (eyes of water), round holes where water wells up from under the salt crust.

You'll then enter the majestic salt flats, stopping to take fun perspective photos, and then head for Incahuasi Island - a unique view point with cacti towering over you. You will stop for a picnic lunch at secluded spot in the middle of the Salar, before continuing north to the village of Coquesa. Here you will see the massive Thunupa Volcano rising up in front of you. It stands on the northern side of the Salar de Uyuni at an elevation of 5,321 m (17,457 ft) on the Bolivian Altiplano. The village of Coquesa affords excellent views all around and you can take a short walk up the hill to the entrance to a cave containing the Coquesa mummies.

Cave Exploration | Head to the southern shores of the salt flats, admire the unusual subaquatic formations found in Galaxy Cave - their unusual appearance provided the inspiration for the cave's name. Next door is a second cave, Cueva del Diablo, or 'Devil's Cave'. This site is an old cemetery from pre-Inca civilizations. Learn about how these places were found and the local legends and traditions associated with them. You'll end the day driving to San Pedro de Quemez, a small Andean town, where you'll have dinner at the Hotel Tayka de Piedra.

Overnight at Hotel Tayka de Piedra | Constructed out of stone and volcanic sand, the Hotel Tayka de Piedra (3,663m/12,017ft) takes its design inspiration from the nearby town of Pueblo Quemado, known for its stone masonry. The cozy bedrooms are heated with radiators and portable gas stoves, and each room has a private bathroom and hot water. This hotel provides guests with all the basic comforts one needs during an adventurous trip to the salt flats.

Saturday 28 April

Surreal Landscapes | After breakfast, you'll head off to enjoy the surreal and highly photogenic landscapes of this region. You will drive through the Salar Chiguana, an enormous expanse of borax deposit. From here visit a lava-filled valley which looks as if the liquid flow of lava has been stopped in time. The ebbing movement that occurred in a bygone era is easy to imagine while the presence of the region's only active volcano, Ollague Volcano, adds to the dramatic backdrop. There is a viewpoint offering impressive views and photo opportunities.

Small Lagoons | Visit the small lagoons of this area, including Laguna Hedionda and Laguna Negra, each exceptional in its own way. Laguna Hedionda is a small lagoon that has a characteristic smell of sulphate due to the mineral composition of its water. Stop at the Arbol de Piedra, which translates to 'tree rock' and is named for its fascinating tree-shape, in the Valley of the Rocks before heading to Mallku Cueva for dinner and to spend the night.

Overnight at Mallku Cueva | Located near the lakes of Lipez and perched upon a rock, this is a rustic and basic but comfortable Andean hotel. All 12 rooms have private bathrooms as well as electricity. The restaurant and bar area includes a cozy fireplace. This hotel, while remote, has magnificent natural surroundings and is located between Uyuni and the Eduardo Avaroa Reserve.

Day 9

Sunday 29 April

Overland Transfer to Eduardo Avaroa Reserve | After breakfast, you'll continue south with your private vehicle and guide, towards the Eduardo Avaroa Reserve.

Excursions in and around the Eduardo Avaroa Reserve | Today you will stop at the Laguna Colorada which displays various hues of red, depending on the light conditions. It is also the most important nesting site for three types of South American flamingoes. Continue to the Sol de Mañana Geysers, with intensely active fumaroles and volcanic craters filling with boiling lava. Afterwards, head to the Chalviri Lagoon, where you have the opportunity to take a dip in the natural hot springs. Finally, pass through Dali's Desert and make your way to the Laguna Blanca then the Laguna Verde, which looks like a liquid emerald, varying between shades of turquoise and green. Along the way you'll stop for a box lunch, and have many opportunities to enjoy and photograph the stunning scenery.

Overland Transfer to San Pedro de Atacama | You will continue south, crossing the border into Chile, to the town of San Pedro de Atacama, at the edge of the Atacama Desert. You can choose to stay in either Kimal Hotel OR Tierra Atacama.

Overnight at Kimal Hotel | Located in the centre of San Pedro de Atacama, the 19-room Kimal Hotel reflects local aesthetics, constructed out of adobe and wood and decorated with terracotta tones and features like lattice straw ceilings and bamboo pillars. The simple rooms offer en-suite bathrooms, fans and heating, and a minibar. The hotel has an on-site restaurant, inner courtyard with outdoor pool and bar and a hot tub and a massage and relaxation centre.

Overnight at Tierra Atacama | Tierra Atacama is a 32-room luxury lodge on the edge of San Pedro de Atacama. Tierra Atacama's architecture, interior design and gardens strive to be as authentic as possible, using furniture and accessories handmade with local materials, while also creating a place that allows guests to relax. Adobe and local rock are integral to the design, which was created by tapping into leading Chilean talent and local materials. The ambiance is casual and friendly: take a seat by one of the terrace fire pits, lounge next to the pool or relax on one of the shady outdoor decks. Tierra Atacama has guest computers available, WiFi throughout the hotel, a TV lounge, excursions area, board games and terraces with fire pits.

Monday 30 April

San Pedro de Atacama | Activities will be organized according to your hotel choice.

Day 11

Tuesday 1 May

Transfer Hotel to Calama airport | After breakfast (or depending on your flight time) you will take a transfer to El Loa Airport, outside the city of Calama, a drive of approximately 1 hr and 15 mins.

END OF SERVICES

About this trip

GROUP SIZE

The group size for this tour is kept to a maximum of 12 to ensure you can enjoy the trip and conversations with your guides. The small group size also ensures that your experience of a particular site is not marred by the presence of too many people.

There is a minimum requirement of 6 passengers to run this tour, so the first 5 people to book will do so on a provisional basis until minimum numbers are reached. We will confirm the trip will run when the minimum has been met, or at the latest, 90 days before departure, and deposits will be fully refundable should the tour not operate.

SINGLE TRAVELLERS

We warmly welcome single travellers on this trip. You have two options - you can choose to share a room with another single traveller on the tour and pay the standard tour price (this option will only be available if another single traveller of the same sex is also willing to share), or you can choose to guarantee the sole occupancy of your room, in which case a single supplement is payable.

TOUR GUIDES

You will be accompanied on your tour by Aracari's Founder and CEO, Marisol Mosquera. In addition, you will have expert local guides who are specialists in their regions and to ensure that your trip runs smoothly and are on hand to solve any problems that may occur.

SPECIAL DIETARY REQUIREMENTS

Special dietary requirements should be highlighted by you on our booking form. Please note that we cannot guarantee availability in remote parts of Bolivia, but the more notice we have, the easier it is to make special arrangements to accommodate your requests.

Please be aware that this is a suggested itinerary and is subject to availability.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Please be advised that travel in Peru and Bolivia, and South America in general, is occasionally subject to disruptions due to circumstances beyond ARACARI's control. These disruptions may affect your trip and may result in delays and changes of plans. These include but are not limited to: adverse weather conditions, unannounced schedule changes in museums and other attractions' opening times, flight cancellations and delays etc. (Please refer to our booking conditions under "force majeure"). Likewise, infrastructure is still limited in places so water and power shortages might occur as well as substandard service even in the best hotels. Therefore, to enhance the enjoyment of your holiday, we STRONGLY ADVISE you to be understanding and patient, as nobody can or will be held responsible for changes to your itinerary as a result of the aforementioned. ARACARI is there to mitigate the hassle and rearrange activities wherever possible to suit your needs, but sometimes the circumstances are beyond our control. The upside is the privilege of visiting a largely unspoiled country and region, with a rich culture and delightful population.
